

ESTABLISHED AUGUST 24, 1852.

The Intelligencer.

The receipt of mails at Cincinnati since September 1st, 1879, to last Saturday, were 46,501, as against 42,322 for the same time last year.

The rate of taxation at Steubenville is 17.50 mills on the dollar, or $1.80 on the $10, which is considerably in excess of the rate down here.

A movement is on foot in New York for a Republican ratification meeting at which Gen. Grant is to preside and General C. C. Smith is to be the orator of the evening.

Mr. A. L. HENRY is a candidate for prosecuting attorney of Harrison county, W. Va. He is a rising lawyer of that county, and strikes us as having the stuff in him for a good prosecutor.

The outcome of the Second District Congressional Convention at Fairmont, Maryland, will surprise a number of the people of that section of the State, and no one will be more astonished than Mr. Martin, who was defeated on the tenth ballot by Judge John Blair Hoge, of Maryland.

Dan Lucas' premature stump speech had a weakening effect on his candidacy. His little cry, according to the estimate of yesterday, was "victory, or the grave." As success failed to perch on his banners, the constant thing for Dan was to do the ceremonies of the grave and die. But we doubt if Dan will be conspired.

Capt. Bradford only tried it a ballot or two and then retired.

A graphic report of the Convention is contained in our special from Fairmont. The votes enacted were unusually dispirited. To say that it was out-rivalled the Fairmont Convention is claiming a great deal, but as our correspondent has his assertion on a personal observation of both, we cannot gainsay him.

THE OTHER CIRCUS.

THE SECOND DISTRICT DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

What a Time Was There, My Countrymen—Whisky and Democracy Mix and Nominate Judge Hoge on the Tenth Ballot.

FAIRMONT, July 26.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

New Martinsville can no longer boast of her famous Democratic Congressional Convention. The convention held here to-day has made Fairmont notorious for the time to come.

TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION.

The convention assembled at 10 A. M., and was called to order by J. V. Sprigg, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee. Wm. Welch, of Mineral county, was made temporary chairman and the Democratic efforts present made secretaries. The usual committees were appointed and instructed to report at one o'clock.

CHARLES JERMS GIVES IT AWAY.

In the interval Charles James Faulkner was yelled for vociferously by the crowd, and he came forward and made a speech of about forty minutes that did a great deal to cripple his chances for the gubernatorial nomination. He struggled manfully to get up some enthusiasm, but failed gloriously.

THE OLD CRY.

He was of the opinion that this Government had been in the hands of land sharks, usurers, and Shylocks for the past twenty years, and that the people enjoyed no more liberty than the meanest and lowest orders of society in a monarchy. He charged the Republican party with having attempted to not only vitiate our constitutional liberties, but to destroy the Government itself. He enlarged Hancock to the skies. When he mentioned his name for the first time at the end of a grandiloquent sentence not a little of applause greeted it.

HE SAID THAT A MILITARY MAN WAS PECULIARLY FITTED FOR THE DISCHARGE OF THE DUTIES OF THE CHIEF MAGISTRACY OF THIS GREAT NATION. He referred to Jackson, Taylor, Harrison and other military Presidents to show that the people had always preferred the warriors, and that they would honor Hancock on account of his soldier services.

A SUPERIOR ATTRACTION.

The band wagon of the circus passed about this time and a large portion of the crowd followed it off.

Faulkner's speech was an utter failure, and he will feel the effects of it at Martinsburg.

A REBEL YELL.

Jacob B. Jackson was the next orator. He evidently thought he was haranguing a Rebel mob from the character of his speech. He was not far wrong in this, yet many Western and Democrats were disgusted. He dealt principally on Garfield's connection with the Electoral Commission, and spoke of him sneeringly as J. Abraham Garfield, the educated and cultured.

JACOB, YOU NAUGHTY MAN.

Jacob's bad grammar added very little to this style of attack. He howled himself hoarse. He said he hated the Republican party with a never dying hatred, and he hated that he had lived and would die hating it.

This speech is too valuable to lose and we promise an extended account of it to-morrow.

CONVENTION REASSEMBLED.

After dinner the convention reassembled and the committees reported. The temporary was made the permanent organization. The chairman, Welch, made a speech on taking the chair of a congratulatory character. He congratulated the Democracy that they were fully on top and hoped they would stay. A batch of resolutions were passed, and the basis of representation calculated from Tilden's vote in 1876.

THE NOMINATIONS.

Nominations being in order, James Morrow, Jr., placed before the Convention the name of John Blair Hoge, in a good speech. John B. Payne, of Preston, named Daniel B. Lucas. During the applause that followed, the presentation of Lucas' name, a tipsy delegate from Monongalia county, got under the impression that he was chairman of the Convention and attempted to regulate things. Order being restored, Fountaine Smith took the platform to nominate Benjamin F. Martin. He started out beautifully, but an unfortunate remark in regard to the greed of the eastern Democracy for office, brought a storm of groans and hisses.

That lasted five minutes. At this point the fog began. A delegate yelled "how long have had Judge Haymond?" Smith retorted; "You have nearly all the officers, and now you want a Supreme Judge."

Then the yelling began in earnest and perfect pandemonium prevailed. The unfortunate orator refused to proceed for some time. He finally got under way and managed to finish, amid jeers, cat calls, and a general uproar.

Daily, of Mineral county seconded Hoge's nomination.

PITCHED INTO MARION COUNTY.

Andrew Kerchival, of Hampshire county, next took the floor and pitched into Marion county rough shod. He said in the next Congress men of ability were wanted, and Ben Martin didn't possess it. He said Martin had been tried and found wanting and that it would be a reflection on the Democracy to send him back again.

He gave Hoge a racket also; said it was beneath the dignity of a Judge to go around electioneering for office. Lucas, he said, had more "brains" than all the candidates put together.

Mayor Norman nominated Thos. Bradford, in the boss speech of the day.

Albert G. Davis, of Monongalia, seconded the nomination of Lucas.

Hall, of Preston, seconded Martin's nomination.

THE BALLOTING.

A motion to proceed to balloting prevailed and the work began. The first ballot stood as follows:

Hoge 46.
Lucas 45.
Martin 60.
Bradford 24.

Necessary to a choice, 91. The entire afternoon was consumed in balloting without any great change.

BRADFORD WITHDRAWS.

Bradford's name was withdrawn on the sixth ballot, increasing Hoge's vote 56, Martin's to 75, and Lucas' to 49. A heavy rain drove the convention into the court house at five o'clock, and so crowded was the court room that the Chairman was powerless to keep the mob quiet. The entire crowd seemed to be yelling at once. Whisky was getting the better of a dozen of the most talkative, and disgusting confusion and disorder prevailed. The outside was again sought. A motion to drop the lowest candidate caused greater confusion than ever. It was lost.

A HIGH OLD TIME.

The Chairman lost control of the convention now, and a score of half tipsy orators were bandying words with each other. Once one delegate moved to adjourn sine die. Another wanted to adjourn to Martinsburg.

Welsh yelled out that he would leave the house if they did not stop the noise.

A voice: "Go, and be damned!"

In the meantime the most disgusting scenes were being enacted, every man seemed trying to out-yell the other.

OF COURSE IT WAS A DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

A local light mounted a table and said: "Gentlemen, this is a Democratic Convention."

"Your damned right," "shut up," "sit down," "knock the fog down," and other such expressions greeted him, and he retired.

The Convention was at this time a howling, mauling mob, and a few delegates at one corner adjourned it to meet again to-night at the Opera House.

Many of the best of the party men are utterly disgusted.

A prominent politician said to me that it was a disgrace to the party.

HOGS NOMINATED.

The convention met about 9 o'clock this evening. Lucas withdrew his name.

Hoge was nominated on the tenth ballot.

The defeated candidates made speeches pledging themselves to support the nominee.

James Morrow, Jr., was made Presidential elector for this congressional district. All quiet at present. JAMES.

STREUVILLE.

Enthusiastic Opening of the Republican Convention, Streuville, July 26.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

The meeting of the Republican ward campaign clubs called for this evening was responded to by ever member, and an enthusiastic business meeting was held. Measures were adopted for conducting the fight this fall, and the campaign will start off with a better organized force than ever before.

A member of one of the ward committees reported seventy-five names for a Garfield club, which he had secured without any effort whatever, as none had been made to organize one.

A central club of five hundred members will now be formed.

The large illuminated sign of the Republican headquarters was swung out from Philadelphia hall to-night and created great enthusiasm.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

Interesting Statistics Concerning the Same.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The excess of exports over imports for the twelve months ended June 30th, was $107,908,399. During the year just closed both the value of imports of merchandise into and value of exports merchandise from the United States were larger than during any preceding year in the history of the country. The value of exports merchandise during the preceding year amounted to $129,000,000. The value of imports of merchandise during the year ended June 30th, 1880, exceeded the value of such exports during the preceding year by $220,000,000, or 50 per cent. The increase in the value of imports of merchandise exceeded the increase on the value of exports nearly $70,000,000.

The value of imports and exports of merchandise during the fiscal year just closed, exceeded in value such imports and exports during the preceding year by about $347,000,000, an increase of 30 per cent. The rapid growth of the foreign commerce of the country is strikingly exhibited by the fact that the value of imports and exports and merchandise during the fiscal year just closed, amounted to $1,503,679,489, being about 81 per cent greater than the value of imports and exports of 1870, and nearly 119 per cent greater than the value of imports and exports of 1860.

The value of imports and exports of merchandise during the year ending June 30, 1880, were about $7,800,000 less than during the preceding fiscal year, and the imports of coin and bullion during the year ending June 30, 1880, were about $7,700,000 less than during the preceding fiscal year, and the imports of coin and bullion exceeded the exports of the same.

STARVING FOR GLORY.

Dr. Tanner Nearly Three-Fourths Done For His Tax.

New York, July 26.—There was no apparent change in the condition of Dr. Tanner this morning. His watchers continue to find him more restless than yesterday, but fail to discover any indication of an early collapse, and each day their confidence in the doctor's ability to complete his wonderful undertaking becomes stronger. Between ten and eleven o'clock he had two drinks of water, amounting to five ounces, making the entire quantity consumed by him since midnight a trifle over a pint. At noon the twenty-eighth day of the fast ended. The doctor was then quietly resting on his cot, with about a dozen spectators about him.

GOING WEST.

FARTHER PONT, July 26.—Passed inward: Montreal, from Liverpool.

PLYMOUTH, July 26.—Arrived: Gellert, from New York for Hungary.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Arrived: Gallia, from Liverpool.

SOMEbody'S WATERLOO.

AND THE PREPARATIONS MAKING FOR IT.

The Democratic State Convention at Martinsburg to-day—Only a Few on the Field as Yet—The Big Sackmen Yet to be Hand With Their Barrels.

MARTINSBURG, July 26.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

Thorough preparations are going on for the physical comfort of the Democratic State Convention which meets in this city on Wednesday, nevertheless there is not as much interest exhibited as to the selection of candidates as is usually manifested by dominant parties. Probably the cheerless state of affairs is owing to absence of the local leaders of the unwashed, who, with per et fil, are attending the Second District Congressional Convention at Fairmont, in the interest of Judge Hoge.

Notwithstanding the opposition of the round editor of the Statesman, a Democratic organ par excellence, the entrance to which is marked by a gilt finger board, the hall is decorated and ready for the delegates, and the hotels are "readier," being filled with the solids and liquids so necessary to keep the Democratic heat booming.

Of the probabilities and possibilities little can be said, as but few of the delegates will get in until to-morrow.

About eighty delegates arrived from the Third District to-night, and while there seems to be some opposition in that quarter to Mr. Faulkner for Governor, still the leading politicians are for him. But few thus far say much of either Jackson or Jeffers, but their sections are not yet represented.

The solid men, solid with the barrel that has the dollar mark on each—J. N. Camden, Judge Jackson, H. G. Davis and others—have engaged rooms in advance, and will be here to congratulate the faithful upon the unity of the party, and to mourn with and console each other over the lost sheep of the Third District.

Henry S. Walker, blatant politician of Charleston, and Sam Woods, of Barbours, the candidate in embryo for Judge of the Court of Appeals, have arrived.

Hon. J. B. Weaver, Presidential candidate of the National Greenback party will address the people of Martinsburg on Thursday.

Probably a better horoscope of the situation can be wired you to-morrow night.

W.

LATER.

JACKSON'S NOMINATION Confidently Predicted.

MARTINSBURG, W. VA., July 26.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

The Democratic State Convention to be held in this city on Wednesday, promises to be largely attended. Two hundred delegates have already arrived, principally from the Third District.

The sentiment is divided, but the opinion is expressed that Jackson will be nominated for Governor. F.M.L.

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

An Estate Worth a Million, in Which President Hayes, Chief Justice Waite and the Cousin of S. J. Tilden are Interested.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The Sun publishes a Baltimore dispatch, giving the details of a suit involving over a million dollars in which President Hayes, Chief Justice Waite, and Myron Tilden, cousin of ex-Gov. Tilden, were interested. It appears from the story that about the year 1812 there lived in Baltimore a sea captain named Ford who married Lora Deskrit, and lived quietly with her for several months. About a year after in the war with Great Britain, he fitted out a privateer and sailed from Baltimore on a cruise. At the close of the war he returned to his wife and found her living with a three or four year old girl, who he was informed, was his child. She was called Emeline Ford, and was remarkable for her beauty.

Captain Ford, after remaining home some time, fitted out a slave ship and conveyed slaves to the South. On his return from his last trip he quarreled with his wife and went West, then, in 1817, a wilderness. He was gone three months and located sundry land warrants, among others one at Indian Hookstone at the mouth of the Maumee river, now the site of the city of Toledo. On returning to Baltimore he found his wife still unyielding. He entered the Mexican service and died in 1822 intestate, leaving his wife and daughter in the hands of a creditor in Connecticut. Mrs. Ford led a bad life after being abandoned by her husband. Her daughter married a merchant prince in 1823. A number of gentlemen came to Baltimore from Toledo to look up heirs to the estate of the late Captain Ford. Captain Ford's Toledo property, Mrs. Ford represented Emeline as the legitimate and only child of Captain Ford by her. She sold her dowry interest in the Toledo land to these gentlemen and conveyed Emeline to the city of Toledo. Meanwhile another party heard that Emeline was an illegitimate child, and bought the title for the Toledo property from Ford's Connecticut sister. The matter stood for years, party on which it is said, more than three hundred dwellings are built. Among the persons who became largely interested in the Baltimore title were President Hayes and Chief Justice Waite. The owner of the Toledo property, Mrs. Tilden, in 1875 some of the holders of the Baltimore title became uneasy, and wanted an investigation. It proved satisfactory. About a year later the story was repeated, and the matter was again investigated. Mrs. Ford told the story of the case, and denied the statement about her testimony. She confessed that she herself was an Irish sea captain. Her sister Lora adopted the child and hid her shame. The effects of this disclosure, if given credence to, may cause more work for the courts.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

At Sag Harbor yesterday Miles Morris was shot dead by a man named Leaman who accused Morris of being improperly intimate with Leaman's wife.

A report has been circulated that the stockholders of the Reading Railroad Company intend bringing suit against the President and directors for deciding a dividend when the receipts did not warrant it.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 26.—The Louisville, New Albany & Chicago Railroad Company having threatened to eject the Adams Express Company from its line; the Express Company applied to the United States Court for an injunction, which was granted. On the preliminary hearing of the case in May last, Justice Harlan issued restraining orders until the final hearing of the case. Recently the Railroad Company have annoyed the Express Company in various ways, and finally refused to receive its safes and chests unless the Express Company moved their attachment against the Railroad Company and various officers for contempt.

The greater part of last week was occupied in the argument, and to-day Judge Gresham delivered an opinion, which is interesting as affecting the transportation interests of the country. He holds that the railroad company and its officers were in contempt, but as they were acting under advice of counsel, dismisses their case. A railroad company has no right to charge an express company for carrying packed parcels the aggregate sum it might charge for parcels if sent separately, but may charge a reasonable rate for the carriage of a safe or chest containing parcels as on a single package only. It cannot, however, charge such parcels unless it has reason to believe the contents to be dangerous to life and property. The decision defines the rights between the parties to be the same as before the suit was commenced, and directs that the status of affairs existing then be maintained until the final hearing. The decision is considered a victory for the express company.

OHIO REPUBLICANS ALARMED.

The Bolt in the Cleveland District May Endanger the State.

CLEVELAND, July 26.—The bolt of a third of the delegates to the Congressional Convention of this district, that nominated Amos Townsend, Republican, for the third term, is causing great excitement. Both the  Herald  and  Leader  attempt to smooth the matter over editorially, but the  Leader  admits the bolters in its local columns. All admit that unless something is done to harmonize the bolters the district will be lost to the Republicans in October and the State endangered. Townsend and his friends are much alarmed.

Garfield has been sent to come and contend upon his behalf by the government authorities of Cuba. Peñabazilla thinks the bolters in a third term can win the election, but he is not sure. He says that the cry that the State will be imperilled for Garfield in November is an absurd declaration to force him off the ticket. The Democrats are jubilant, and feel confident of carrying the district.

WANT DAMAGES.

An American Citizen Sues the Spanish Government.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Joseph Peñabazilla, an American citizen of Cuban birth, who arrived by steamer City of Washington, from Havana, has just begun suit for damages against the Spanish Government for alleged damages resulting from arrest, false imprisonment, and other outrages committed upon him by the government authorities of Cuba. Peñabazilla sustains the honor of the American flag in permitting the arrest to be made on board the steamer. He is a third term man, and the cry that the State will be imperilled for Garfield in November is an absurd declaration to force him off the ticket. The Democrats are jubilant, and feel confident of carrying the district.

MAUD S.

Her Former Owner Congratulated on Her Success.

CINCINNATI, July 26.—Capt. George N. Stone, the former owner of Vanderbilt's now famous young mare, Maud S., was on "Change to-day, where he was busy receiving congratulations over the performance of the mare at Chicago on Saturday night of the week ending July 24th, when she was not at all surprised by the result on Saturday and Sunday. Maud S. could easily have beaten St. Julien's record if she had not been slowed up by her hind legs. He is confident that she will set a record of 2:13, the best ever made in a race and made by her in her second public appearance, she holds the place of the best trotter in the world. She trots in Cleveland on Wednesday.

The Greatest and Most Sensible Forgery of the Campaign.

Chicago Times, Independent.

The organs and agents of the Chicago party are giving themselves a great deal of unnecessary trouble about the language said to have been used by Judge Swayne, of the United States Supreme Court, in an opinion delivered on July 24th, in which he said that the bolters in a third term can win the election, but he is not sure. He says that the cry that the State will be imperilled for Garfield in November is an absurd declaration to force him off the ticket. The Democrats are jubilant, and feel confident of carrying the district.

MRS. WETMORE'S SUICIDE.

PARIS, July 26.—The Gaulois says that Mrs. Wetmore died of congestion of the brain, and not by suicide. Another paper says that Mrs. Wetmore made the acquaintance of an Englishman of title, who pressed her to obtain a divorce in order to marry him. She obtained the divorce, but just as she received information that the decree had been granted in her favor, she learned that the English Lord offered pecuniary indemnity. This final outrage rendered disappointment unbearable, and she poisoned herself.

THE WIMBLEDON MATCHES.

LONDON, July 26.—The American rifle men were much cheered upon going up to receive the prizes at the hands of the Prince of Wales. All the papers mention the dispute between Farrow and Hyde.

The marker who took the bribe in the Olympic competition is under arrest. The Court of Inquiry has not yet given its decision in the matter of the British team. It was suggested that two strangers be placed in the butts to watch the target of the Americans during the match, in order to see fair play. Hyde declared it unnecessary.

BOULALIA.

LONDON, July 26.—A dispatch from Bucharest says that the Turkish Ambassador has received information that Aleko Pasha, Governor of Eastern Roumelia, is treating with Bulgaria for a union with the Bulgarians, with the object of de-throning Prince Alexander in his favor.

RUNNIA.

St. Petersburg, July 26.—The Globe says: Until the administrative procedure in punishing crimes is abolished all reforms are futile. Inviolability of an individual must be recognized and established in law before the Secretary can support the Government in its measures.

A SIGNIFICANT FACT.

LONDON, July 26.—The morning papers point out the fact as significant, that in proclaiming Abdurrahman Khan, the formula used was Ameer of Cabul, not Ameer of Afghanistan, indicating the intention of the government to maintain the separation of Candahar.
